

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An exercise machine includes at least two vertically-adjustable force-applying members that can be independently adjusted by a user to desired positions. Both force-applying members are connected by a cable and pulley system to a single weight stack.